

Give Your Supply Chain A Voice

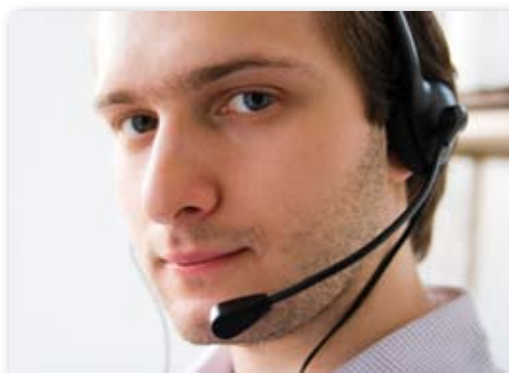

Any Voice. Any Task. Any Place. Any Time.

Your supply chain doesn't stop. The pressure to keep up with fluctuating customer demand and the variability of your entire supplier network makes every minute critical to sustaining your operations. Your processes need to be efficient and flexible at the same time to ensure that each and every movement is driving savings, not adding costs. How well you manage your distribution network is critical to your success.

Voice-Enable More Than Just Picking

Whether you're evaluating voice for the first time, or for new ways to extend the use of voice technology across your enterprise, you need a solution that can help you drive improvements from the Receiving Yard to the Loading Dock, and beyond. Increasing worker productivity and flexibility is critical to sustaining your day-to-day operations and provides you with the scalability and support necessary to better equip your workforce to help drive your business. Don't be boxed in by your choice in technology. Be flexible for tomorrow by making the choice in flexibility today.

The Datria Choice

- Order Selection
- Putaway
- Replenishment
- Cycle Counting
- Receiving
- Loading
- and more!

You decide what applications to voice-enable to help drive greater value across your operations. You have a choice in solutions; don't let your solution limit your choices.

Configurable and Scalable to meet the needs of your Enterprise today, and for tomorrow.

The adoption of voice technology as an integral component to any operational improvement strategy continues to grow year after year. That's become more and more prevalent inside the warehouse, especially when it comes to the order selection process. The savings that come from enabling employees to be more hands-free and eyes-free are real and help drive a typical ROI in less than 12-months.

From full case picking to piece picking, single order to batch, from less than 10-workers to over 3,000, Datria Voice has proven time and time again choice and flexibility are what make the difference when it comes to the right voice solution. You need a voice solution that can support and keep up with your warehouse processes.

But why stop with order selection? Because that's where they want to believe the savings end? With a software solution that can run on any device, you can voice-enable your entire warehouse at a fraction of the cost of yesterday's technology. Your voice, your choice.
